

Telling the Bees: Pack up sequence

Packaging has been cut so that the Beespoon can be packed away in layers.

This may seem like overkill but one Beespoon installation was destroyed when couriers mishandled it, so now we try carefully to reduce the chance of breakages by packing very carefully in the flight cases.

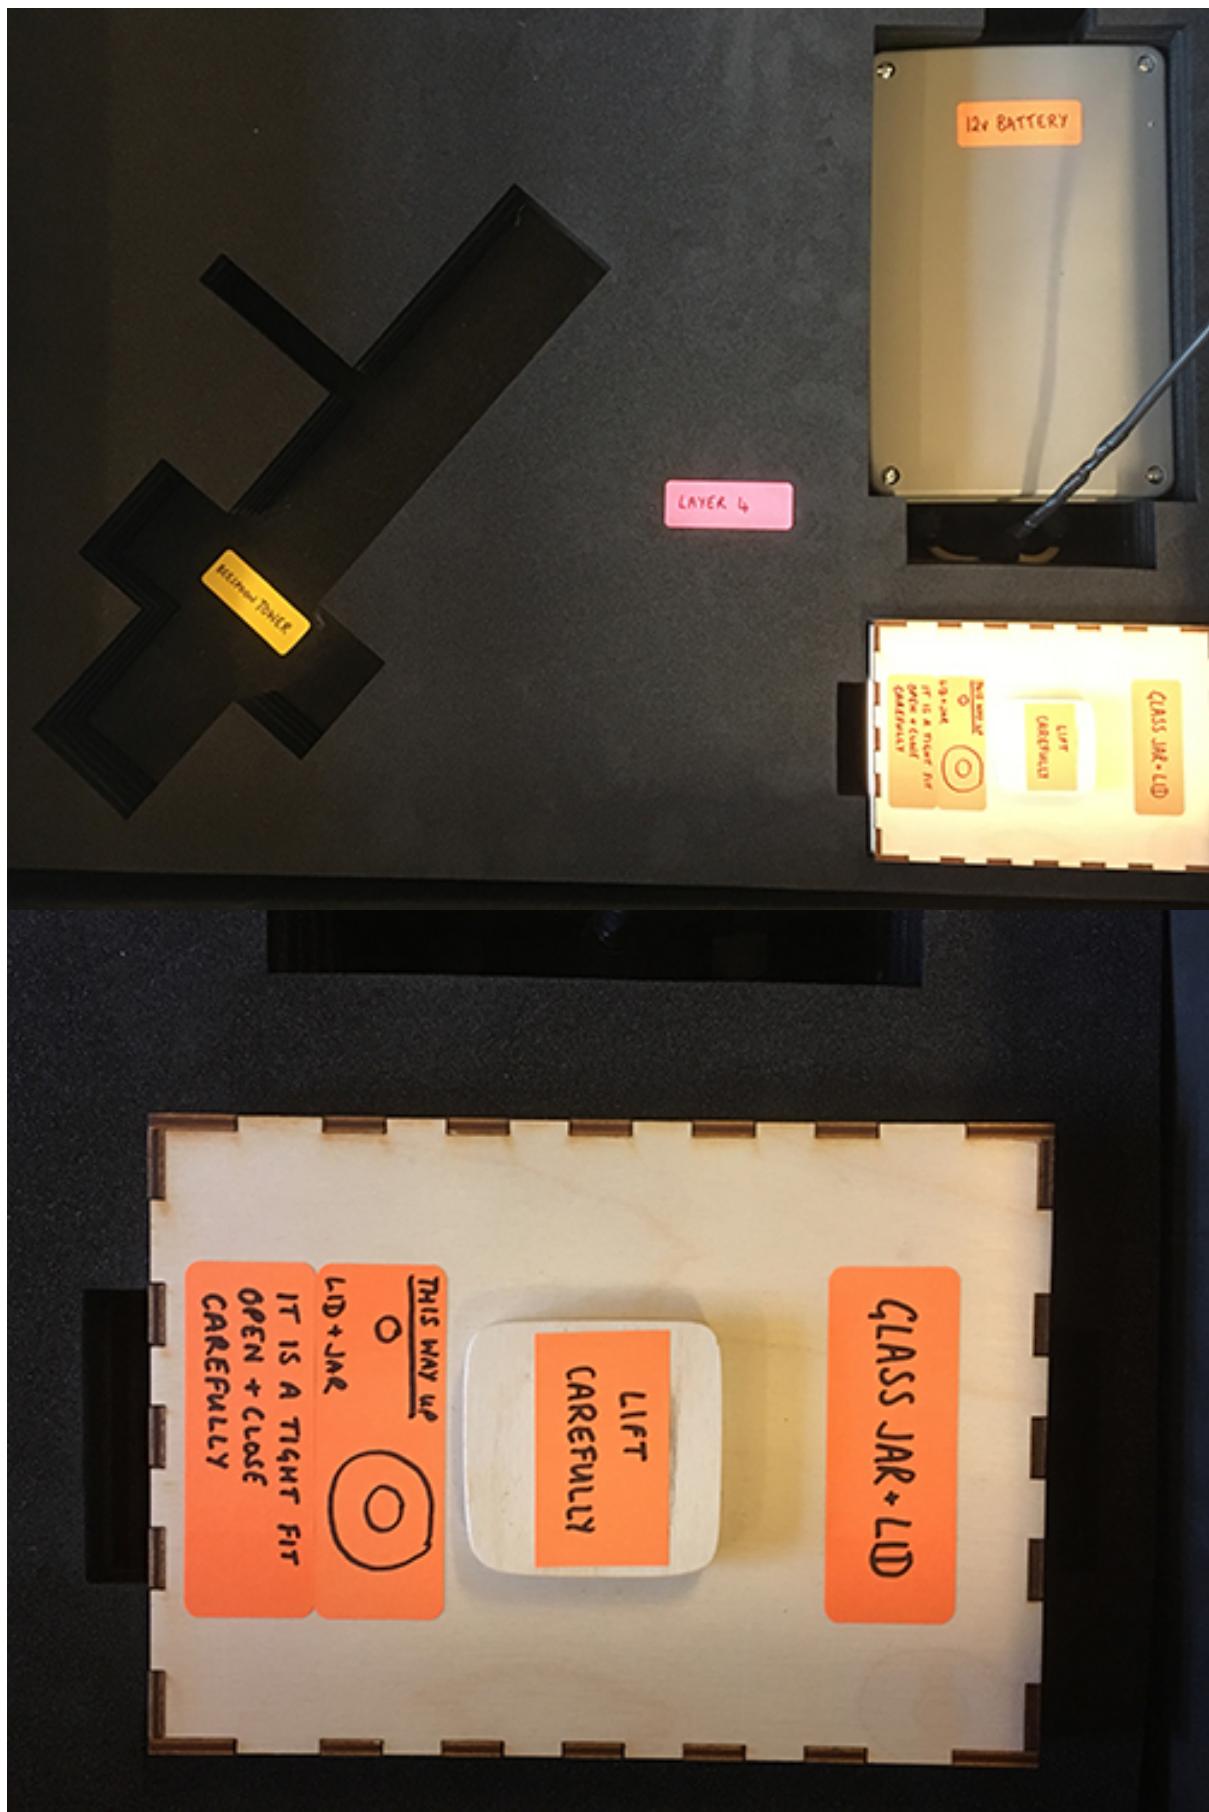

The parts need to be guided carefully into the foam cut-outs.

Main flight case:

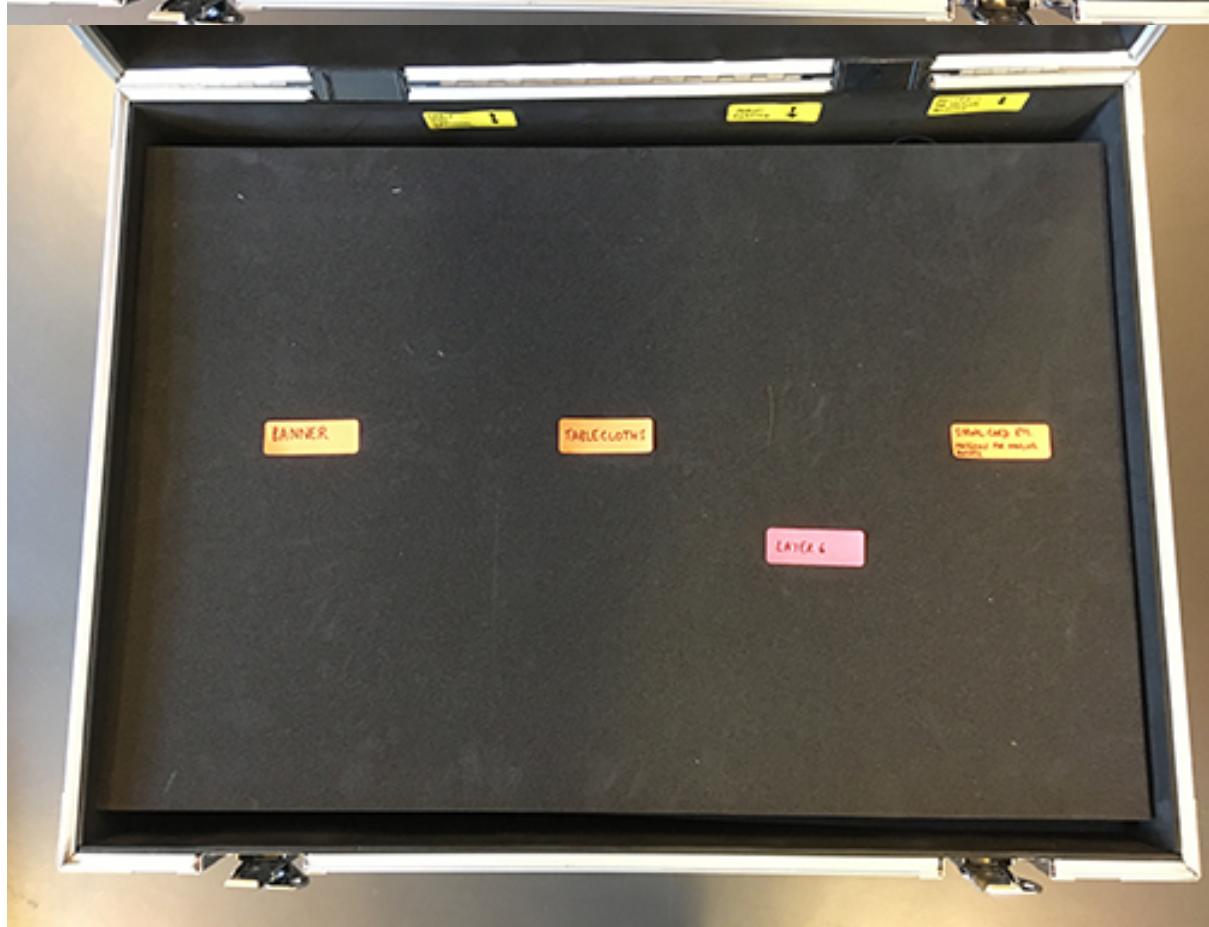

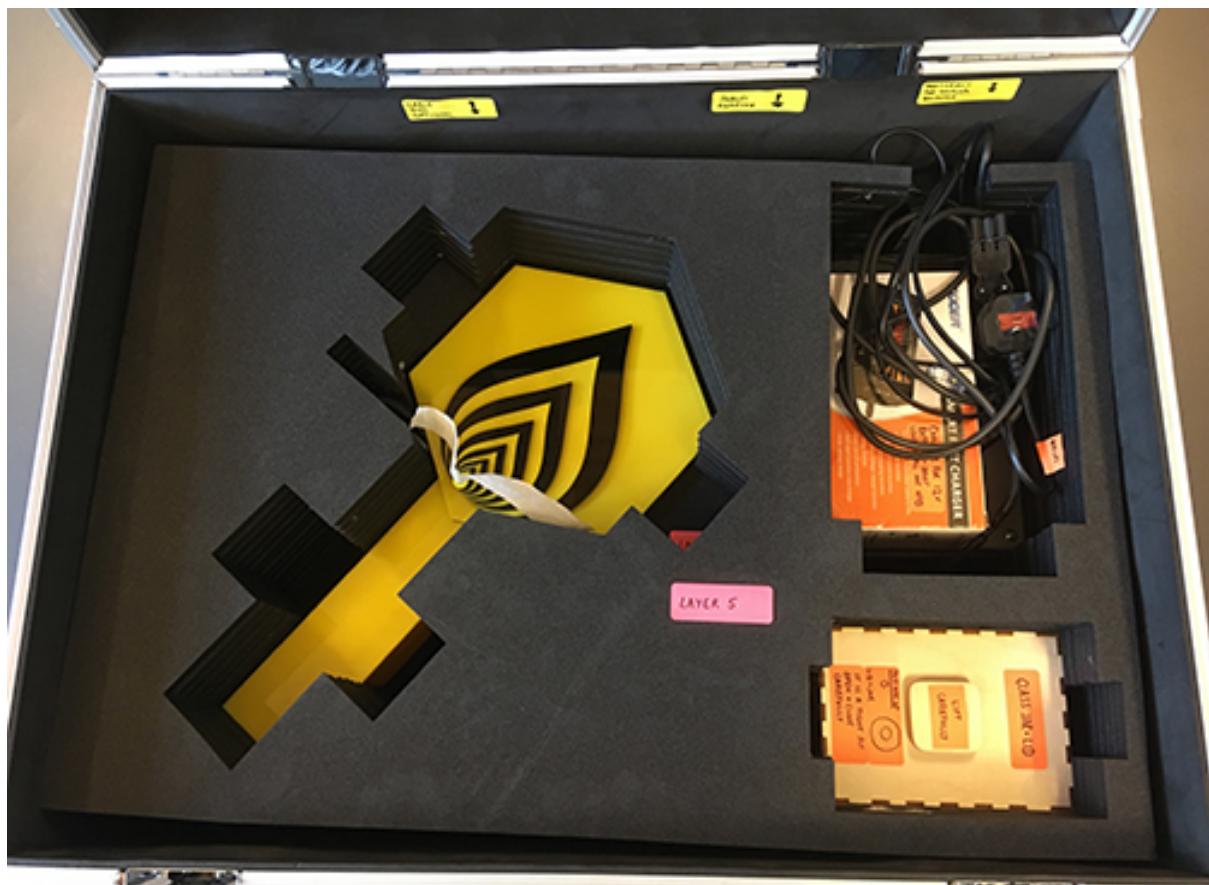

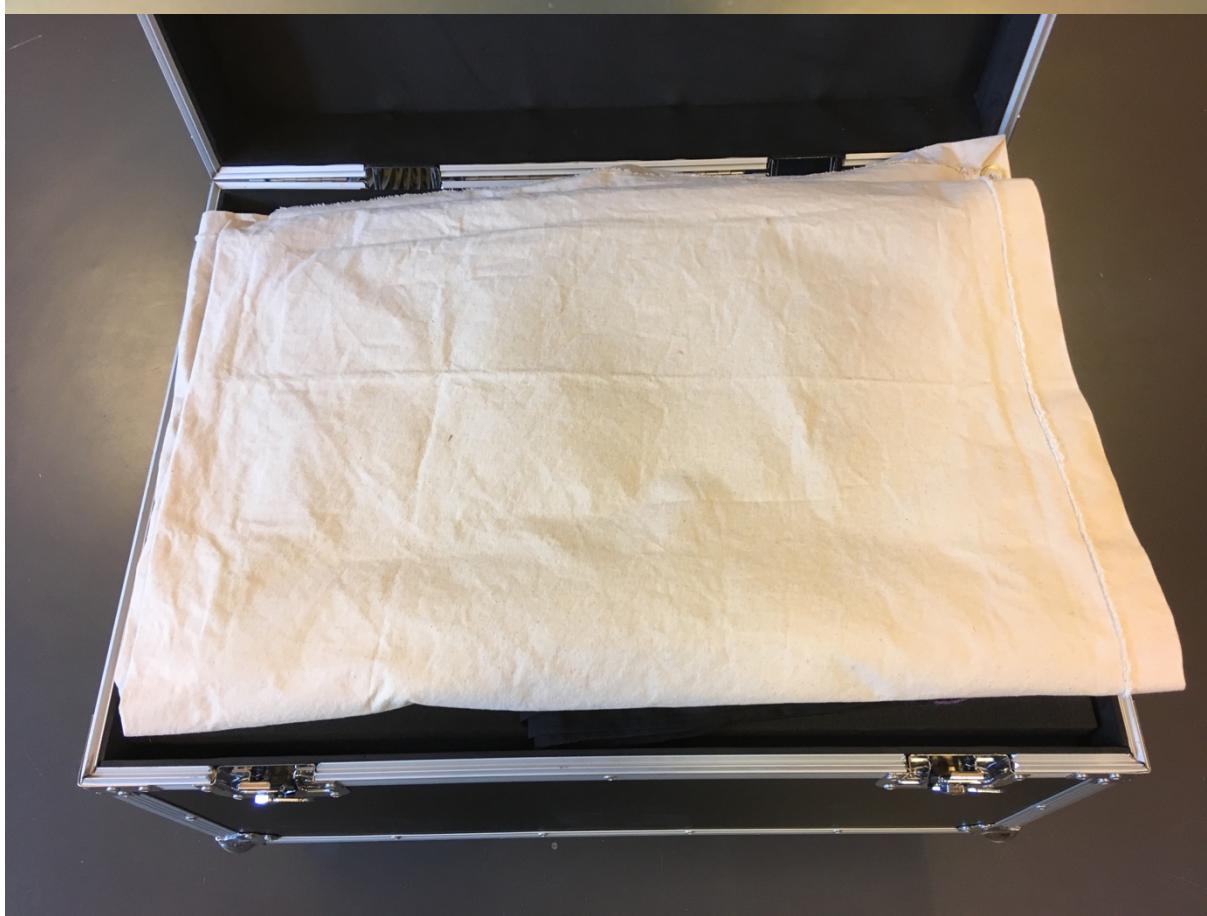

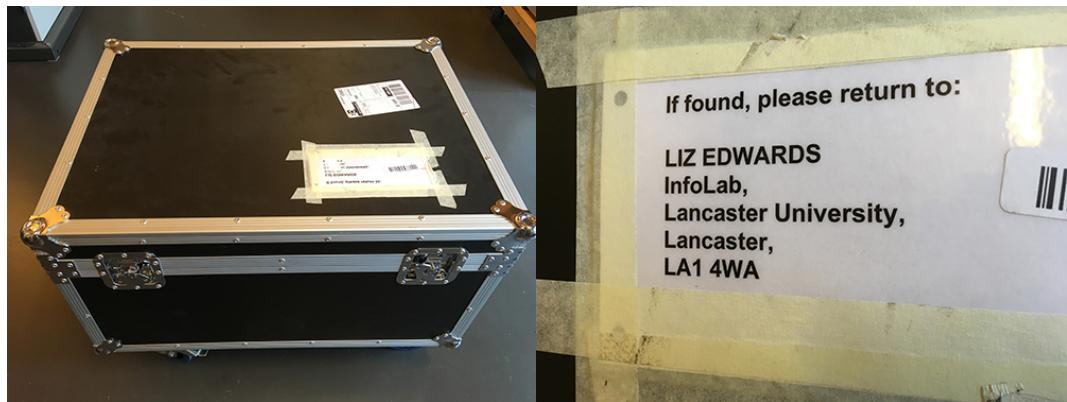

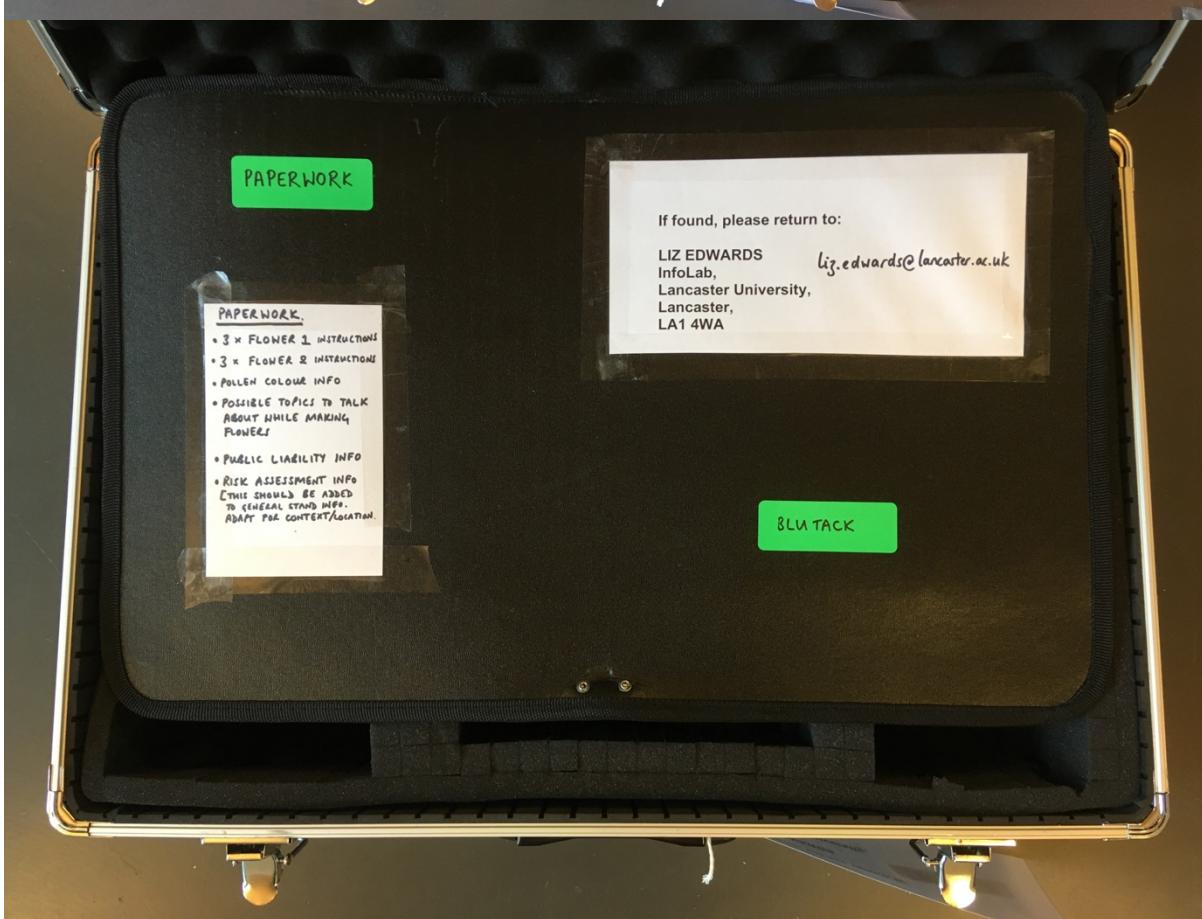

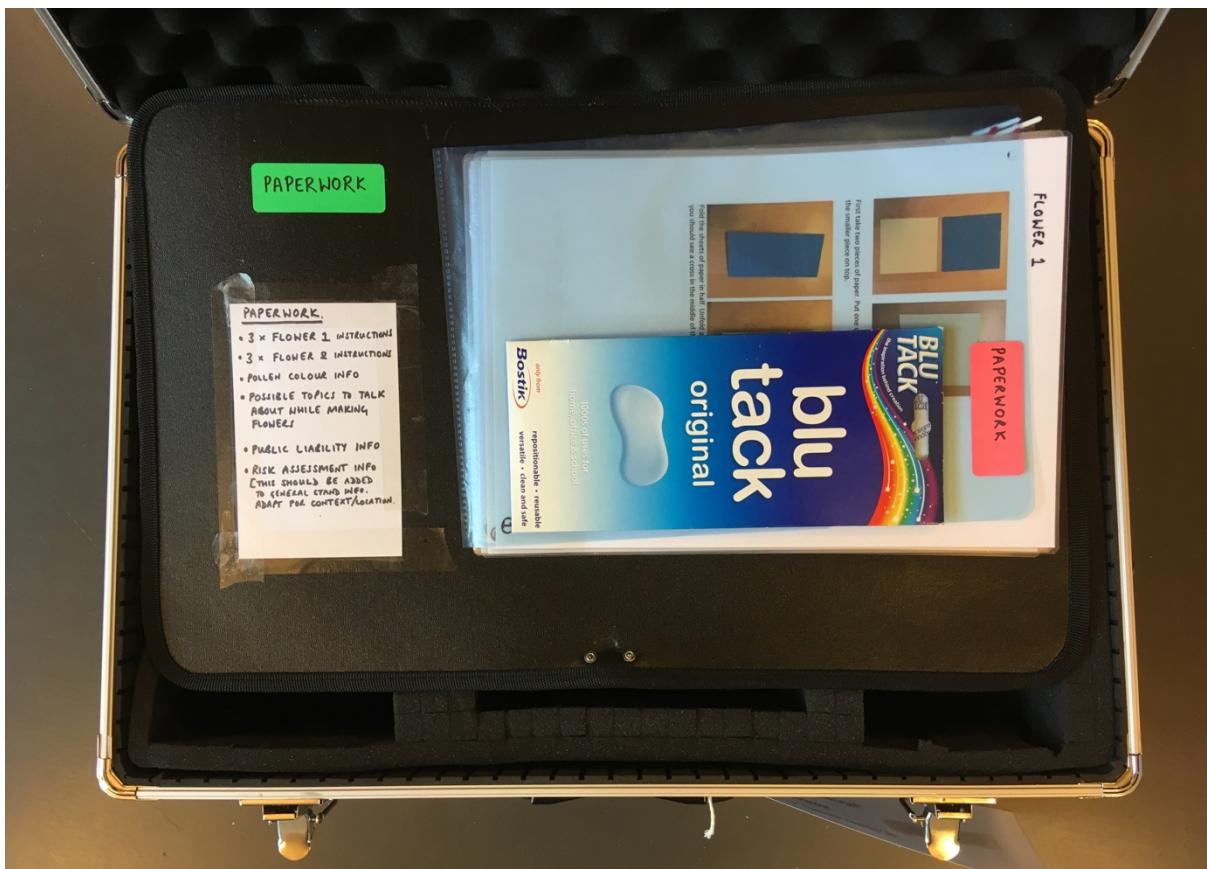

Make sure castors are locked down in transit. Use feet to kick lock on and off. Don't use hands in case they get caught.
